POLITICAL PARADE

By CLEM WHITAKER

The power of tax, when employed for punitive purposes, or for any other ulterior reason, is one of the most dangerous weapons in the arsenal of pressure-politics!

That fact needs to be kept constantly in mind, both by Congress and by the people back home, during the months just ahead, as there are increasing indications that radical and bureaucratic groups, seeking to achieve a "bloodless revolution" while the country is preoccupied with the war, will attempt to use the tax bludgeon to gain their ends.

Taxes for war purposes, necessarily, must be high and will call for the greatest possible sacrifices, but as burdensome as war taxes may be, the greatest threat to the nation's welfare and security will not result from the terrific cost of the war effort. The real danger is that the war will be used to cloak an attempt to apply taxes which are not designed primarily to raise revenues, but rather to put over a program to tax everyone-down-to-a-common level.

Typical of some of the confiscatory tax schemes already proposed was the recent tax-on-spending submitted by the Treasury Department to the Senate Finance committee, which was so drafted that it would have put every person with an expenditure base of more than $1000 a year in a veritable strait-jacket. The Senate committee promptly killed this extreme proposal, but Washington officials are now touring the country, trying to create support for it, and there is every likelihood that it will bob up again before long in somewhat modified form.

As originally drawn, this spending-tax would have required every taxpayer to file a statement of his bank balance on Jan. 1 with a detail of all items passing through the account during the year, and with the subsequent balance on Dec. 31. There would be two taxes—a flat tax of 10 per cent on all expenditures over $1000, and on expenditures over $2000 there would be a graded surtax at the rate of...

10 per cent on the first taxable $1000
20 per cent on the next $1000
30 per cent on the third $1000
40 per cent on the next $2000
50 per cent on all over $5000 up to $10,000
75 per cent on all over $10,000.

The average citizen, who still believes in the American system of free enterprise—and who is opposed to seeing it taxed out of existence—might well keep an eye on

Club Members Will Assemble for Christmas Tea

Members of the Country Woman's club will mark the beginning of Christmas week with a tea to begin at 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon in the club house.

A very short business meeting will precede the program.

During the afternoon the ladies will enjoy a Christmas talk by the Rev. J. H. Bennett and Christmas songs by the Rev. D. H. Baldwin and Miss Josephine Barbano. All members will participate in carol singing led by Mrs. R. H. Hyde.

Committee members taking charge of the afternoon are Mrs. Charles Simonds, Mrs. Roy Archibald, Mrs. Dan Clark, Mrs. Lowell Benson, and Miss Helen Stray.

The What Not Shop Observes Anniversary

The What Not shop observed its second anniversary Tuesday afternoon with an "at home" tea.

The always lovely little shop was especially attractive with its holiday decorations which increased the cozy home atmosphere.

An especially artistic creche was arranged in the living room where tea and cookies were served the guests who came in numbers throughout the visiting hours.

THANKS

We wish to express publicly our sincere appreciation of the exceedingly efficient work which the Campbell Volunteer Fire company, under the direction of Jack Scott, did in putting out the fire in the Campbell Hotel, and to our many friends for their kindly assistance and offers of aid, during the ensuing days. Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Lanphear

FARMERS OF AMERICA.

More farm scrap is needed. Farm scrap is needed now in large amounts to blend with lighter scrap gathered in the recent city drive, in order to make the high quality tanks and guns our boys must have on the fighting fronts.

You have done a fine job of collecting and turning in your scrap but the need increases. Therefore, I am asking each of you to search your farm again and also to turn in your scrap as fast as it accumulates. This winter you will be getting your farm machinery ready for the big drive next spring. Turn in all broken and worn out parts and any equipment that's no longer useful. If it can't be used on the farm front, turn it in for scrap and it will be used on the battle front.

H. G. Schwab Honored On 84th Birthday

H. G. Schwab, living two miles west of town on the San Tomas road, celebrated his 84th birthday on Friday, Dec. 11 in a very enjoyable way.

Responding to invitations sent out by his daughter, Mrs. James F. Ryan, a number of his friends of many years standing, dropped in early in the afternoon to help him observe the day. These guests were Messrs. G. A. Whipple of Campbell, F. D. Ancutt of Willow Glen, H. N. Hansen of Cupertino and C. Maas of San Jose.

During the afternoon Mrs. Ryan served tempting refreshments and later took a number of interesting snaps of the group which included her mother who is also enjoying her 84th year.

It will be remembered that Mr. and Mrs. Schwab celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary on March 2.

RECEIVES DEGREE

Cornell University has awarded the degree of Doctor of Philosophy to Ralph Albert Smith of Campbell, president Edmund E. Day announced today. Degrees, both baccalaureate and advanced have been conferred this fall on 244 students.

Jeff Donnell, Columbia film player, collects heavily-tinned milk cans to aid in the Northern California campaign to round up stray dairy containers. December 16th to 19th have been designated "Round-Up" days by the dairy industry and the State Department of Agriculture. Patriotic housewives, ranchers and farmers are urged to return all empty cans, cases and glass milk bottles that the delivery of dairy products will not be interrupted.

Last Rites Held Here Wednesday For F. MacFarlane

The Rev. J. H. Bennett conducted funeral services yesterday morning from the Rutherford Funeral Home for Fred E. MacFarlane who was found dead Sunday in his home at 754 Rincon avenue.

The body was found by Ewall Littrell of San Jose who had gone to the MacFarlane ranch to purchase a turkey. Dr. W. I. Merrill who was summoned pronounced death due to a heart attack.

MacFarlane, a native of California was born Sept. 4, 1889, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James D. MacFarlane. He is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Mabel Myers of Oakland; Mrs. Evaline Mitchell of San Francisco and Mrs. Gladys Williams, of Cayucos, a niece and two nephews one of whom, Donald MacFarlane, now of Richmond made his home here during his school years.

Music for the services was provided by Virginia Rutherford, organist and David Rutherford, soloist.

The body was taken to Woodlawn Memorial Park, San Francisco, for interment.

Dehydrators to Be Expanded

The war production board has ordered that no apricots, fruit salad, orange juice, carrots, applesauce, white asparagus or grapefruit segments be canned for civilians in 1943. These are part of a list of foodstuffs affected, with a design to save quantities of tin, steel and rubber.

The prospects are that a great many more apricots will be dried this next season if help and facilities are available. As Food Administrator Wickard has called for a 300 per cent expansion of dehydrating capacity, this area may have increased industry in that line.

The West Coast Dehydrating company here is working on carrots, and the Campbell Products company on potatoes and is increasing its capacity. The two plants are working three shifts, except when held up for lack of produce.

SERVICE CLUB

The Women's Service club held a well attended meeting yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Donald Baldwin. She was assisted by co-hostesses, Mrs. E. R. Kennedy, Miss Winifred Grizzle and Mrs. W. N. Lloyd.

The main feature of the afternoon was packing Christmas boxes with groceries contributed by the members. Work for the Red Cross was also carried on, and a social hour enjoyed during which dainty refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Rugani and two daughters of San Francisco, were visiting their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. A. Raffanti and son, over the week-end.

Fire at Local Hotel Does Great Damage

Roused from sleep early Sunday morning by the sound of the fire siren, the volunteer fire department rushed to the scene of the fire, the Campbell Hotel, from which blaze was seen afar.

The valiant efforts of Chief J. B. Scott and a crew of fourteen confined the fire to the upper floor, which was thoroughly gutted. The lower floor which was occupied by the proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. Ethan E. Lanphear was not burned, although water did considerable damage.

One guest who was slightly burned was a new employee at the Campbell dehydrator who had rented a room at 3:30 that morning, but all others escaped although their possessions were lost.

It is thought that a burning cigaret was probably the source of the fire.

Damage was estimated at around $3000.

Thaddeus Joy Funeral Held In Oakland

Funeral services for Thaddeus Joy were held from the Chapel of the Chimes on Piedmont avenue, Oakland, Friday, Dec. 4.

Joy, born in Minneapolis, was 59 years of age and came to Campbell with his parents about 1900 and entered the high school. After graduating from the University of California in 1907 he travelled and studied for three years.

He began the practice of his profession as an architect in San Francisco and became very widely known for many prominent buildings he designed.

He was married to Anna Ross, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall A. Ross of McCoy avenue, who survives, with their five children, Miss Eleanor Joy, secretary of music department at San Jose State college; Mrs. Frank Pataye and Mrs. Peter Ratcliffe, both of Berkeley; Paula Joy, student at the University of California, and Philip of the U. S. Army. He leaves two sisters, Mrs. Alice Joy Keith of Kentucky and Miss Lucy Joy of Campbell, who lives on the family ranch on Rincon avenue.

Campbell has a memento of Mr. Joy's work in the remodelled Congregational church which he designed from the original building, rearranging the interior and adding the entrance porch.

The above article was accidentally omitted from last week's issue, having been left reposing in the editor's desk drawer.

A DAUGHTER

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Simonds are parents of a daughter, born Wednesday morning, Dec. 16, at O'Connor hospital. The new arrival whose name is Lura Marie, weighed 7 pounds, 12 ounces.

FOR CHILDREN

We're sorry, boys and girls, about that big cut in ice cream production! Forty per cent less this month than in October! That means fewer of those drippy, double-scoop cones, less pink and green ice cream for birthdays! We're sorry about the vanishing lollypops and the scarcity of peppermint canes to hang on your Christmas trees. We're sorry that toys, as well as butter, milk, eggs and meat aren't so plentiful.

But now we know that there are thousands of boys and girls like you all over the world who get very little to eat! Some of them have just a bowl of rice. Some of them go hungry. You wouldn't like that! Americans can't stand it to see anyone go hungry.

So you see, boys and girls, when you have less of the good things you are used to, you are joining the CWS (Children Who Serve). You can do it by laughing it off, in the good old American way, when you find the shelves pretty bare, even of cookies. Join with us grown-ups in helping to win the war for the children all over the world who are hungry and cold. The ice cream will come again—and before you are too old to enjoy it!

IT'S A DOGS' LIFE!

Talk of a total war effort! Even dogs work now. What say you to an army auxiliary unit titled "The Wags?" That's what all the best dogs are joining. And if you wonder whether dogs can be really useful in the army, visit one of the three training centers for the Canine Corps—at San Mateo, Calif., at Fort Robinson, Nebraska, and at Fort Royal, Virginia.

You live well enough when you join the Wags, but as in the two-legged realm, these days, no frills! Mainbocher definitely did not design their collars, but a keen sniff and pricked up ears are being worn.

Dogs in army training meet the stern discipline of soldier ways. They must learn to sniff out the enemy, to stand guard at camps, posts, beaches, munition plants or possible invasion points. Newfoundlands, St. Bernard and Great Pyrenees train best for the service of first aid, and for carrying messages when radios fail. Other breeds learn to spot airplanes before the sound of the motors is perceptible to the human ear. All types of dogs are used—as in the human species, selection is based more on temperament and ability to learn and to follow commands, than on breed.

Dogs played a small part in the armed services in World War I, but they are filling much sterner wants in World War II. So long the pampered pets of men, now they are justifying their place in the war-time scheme of things, lending the aid of their keen instincts to the necessities of war.

HOME FRONT CHANGES

No outdoor lighting of Christmas trees this year—and indoor lights must be hidden from the streets. Without lights, the outdoor Christmas tree won't be so much fun, and a prominent California Flower Growers' association reports that most of its membership will not sell trees this year—that wreaths will be scarce. That song, "When the Lights Go On Again" will have real meaning come Christmas Eve, when we walk through dark streets. In lighter vein is the change gas rationing is making at the altar. Reno competition will be out of the running in marriage licenses in the future. Licenses issued at home are making new records.

SIXES AND SEVENS

When a penny isn't a "copper," and a five-cent piece isn't a "nickel," our world is certainly at sixes and sevens! Treasury officials in Washington have disclosed that one-cent pieces may be minted of steel coated with zinc, to free copper for war industries. Other new war time coins indicated are 3c pieces, and someone in rapport with bargain counters said, "Why not a 49c piece?"

Before the manufacture of copper pennies was suspended, our mints had been turning out pennies at an unprecedented rate—more than a billion last year. Nearly everything you buy these days is 16c, 21c or 52c. Remember a time when pennies meant stamps, or something to give the children.

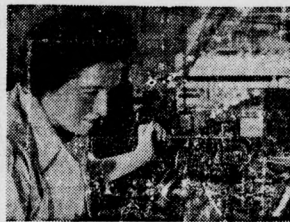

To find new materials for our coins apparently isn't easy. Steel rusts and has to be covered with zinc. Plastics have gone to war along with nickel. We have to find new, non-strategic materials that will "keep." We'd miss our copper penny and nickel five-cent piece. They have something of the "wearability" of democracy about them.

18% OF HER PAY GOES INTO WAR BONDS

War Plant Worker Buys Bonds for Warrior Husband

Although she has two children to support on her wages as a power press operator at a war plant, Mrs. Mabel W. puts 18% of her pay every week into War Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan. Mrs. W. thinks of every bond she buys in terms of what it can do for her soldier husband out in Australia. "Already," she says, "I've bought Jim a Garand rifle and a gas mask in War Bonds. I feel I'm helping to bring him back safe and sound!"

This year the holiday season finds millions of our fellow-citizens in the armed forces, millions more in the factories and shipyards who serve those gallant men at the front.

There is no finer Christmas gift that can be sent to our fighting forces than the greatest output possible of planes, ships, and supplies, bringing Victory closer.

The Long Distance lines of the Nation are serving this gigantic program by handling a tremendous number of calls, the greatest in telephone history.

Big as it is, the network of Long Distance lines has no margins this year for purely personal calls; nor can more lines be constructed. The copper and other materials that would require are needed still more by our fighting men.

In recent months, your co-operation in keeping Long Distance calls to the essential has helped to keep these lines clear for war calls. We ask now that you continue this assistance, over the holidays especially. To war-busy centers, please make only calls that are necessary.

We appreciate your friendly help and understanding.

THE BOOK MARK

by marty

"The Robe" by Lloyd C. Douglas.

It is moments of great thrills that one remembers for many, many years, and one of those thrilling moments comes to life as I read Mr. Douglas' last book. A few years ago I had the pleasure of talking with Mr. Douglas—yes, I can honestly say talking, as he asked questions instead of myself asking them. His book "Green Light" had been on the booksellers' shelves for a year or so and on the occasion of our meeting he wished to know, more than anything else about his books, just how much the book meant to me. Whether it was considered a literary success, a thrilling success or any number of other sensational hits, did not enter his mind to consider—what good the book had done and what great good it could do in the future to bring a bit of light and consolation to its readers was all that mattered to Mr. Douglas.

To date I have not completed my reading of "The Robe," but I find it is beautiful and inspiring that I could not keep the news of its existence from the author's fans another day.

In this book Mr. Douglas has stepped into another field of material and literary construction. As he himself states, "A friend wrote to me asking if I knew what had become of Christ's robe." He said he did not know but the seed was sown for a new book and immediately he went to work, searching for information and after many years and months of study and research, his efforts are for us to read and enjoy. I feel at this special time, Christmas, this book is a gift from heaven. There is a great deal about another terrible era in history similar to our own—disturbing and exciting, but satisfying and consoling.

"The Robe" goes back to those early days of Mr. Douglas' father's Bible stories. He is deeply versed in things religious, having studied to become a minister and preached the word of God for many years, previous to his writing career.

This book is by far his deepest and most important publication.

Christian Science Churches

"Is the Universe, Including Man Evolved by Atomic Force?" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon Sunday, Dec. 20, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist. The Golden Text will be: "Known unto God are all his works from the beginning of the world," (Acts 15: 18).

Other Bible citations will include: "I will remember the works of the Lord: surely I will remember thy wonders of old. I will meditate also of all thy work, and talk of thy doings. Thy way, O God, is in the sanctuary: who is so great a God as our God?" (Psalms 77:11—13). The Lesson-Sermon will also include a passage from the Christian Science textbook.

WPB ASKS FARMERS TO BRING IN SCRAP

Nelson Telegram Points Out Need For Heavy Farm Metal

WASHINGTON — The Nation's farmers will take the pole position in the stretch drive for heavy iron and steel scrap during the closing weeks of 1942, according to a telegram from WPB Chairman Donald Nelson to the editors of more than 10,000 weekly newspapers and farm publications.

Emphasizing the need for heavy scrap to strengthen the greater abundance of lighter household scrap, which flooded the country's scrap yards as a result of the recent newspaper campaign, Mr. Rosenwald called attention to the fact that, next to industry, the agricultural areas are the best source of heavy scrap.

Already in the spotlight because of his extra efforts to increase crop production in the face of serious wartime shortages of manpower and machinery, the farmer thus assumes the added burden of supplying war materials needed in the production of ships, tanks, guns, aircraft and all kinds of mechanized equipment.

Despite the difficulties of crop production, however, farmers have taken an active part in scrap collection from the beginning, and have already made a good showing. But now that their harvests have been completed and they are free to devote a large share of their time to other activities, the Government is asking them to make an all-out effort to collect and turn in every pound of idle scrap still remaining on almost every farm, during the next few weeks.

All of the manpower and transportation facilities of local salvage committees in the rural areas will be thrown into this year-end effort of 1942, Mr. Rosenwald said. The press has been asked to give widespread publicity to the drive and to use their influence to coordinate the activities of all cooperating groups, such as the American Farm Bureau, the National Grange, the Farmer's Union, the Four-H Clubs, the Future Farmers of America, the Boy Scouts, the RFA, Cooperatives, the WPA, State and County Highway Departments, the Farm Equipment Dealers, the Automotive Safety Foundation, local civic and business organizations, and many others.

U.S.D.A. War Board Chairman, County Agents, and Community Leaders, who have been among the most active in farm scrap collection in the past, are in a position to give important aid, and will be called upon to take a leading part.

Conservation Department officials point out that in many sections of the country this drive will be a race against the weather, and that no time should be lost in getting started. Winter weather will be a handicap, but unless transportation is completely paralyzed, the work of collection, it is believed will be prosecuted with the utmost vigor. "Snow, ice, rain and mud, will not stop our men on the fighting front," said Eric H. Marks, Chief of the Farm Scrap Section, "and we know it will not stop the army of farmers and volunteer workers in this drive for heavy farm scrap."

Reports coming in from every section of the country indicate that the amount of iron and steel scrap still remaining on American farms far exceeds the tonnage so far turned in. In fact, it is evident that the surface has hardly been scratched, and it is for this reason that great hopes are held out for a smashing success in the current effort.

A word of caution is voiced by the Department of Agriculture to all who participate in this drive, not to overlook the fact that usable parts should be removed from old machines and salvaged for future use. This is because farm machinery is now being rationed, and all existing farm machines must be kept in operating condition. Save the usable parts; repair every machine that can be used; scrap the rest.

Already there are signs that this will prove to be one of the most popular of civilian war efforts. Farmers know of the records set up in city drives for household scrap, and they do not intend to be beaten by their city cousins. They know that more farm scrap is what Uncle Sam wants, and they are going to see that he gets it.

INQUIRE ABOUT OUR SPECIAL CHRISTMAS OFEER

Janey

Janey closed the bedroom door and locked it. Alone at last! She threw back her head and heaved a deep sigh. Then she peeked out of the corner of her eye at the mirror to see whether she really did look like Heely LaMarr. Quite a lot, she decided.

And now to business. She drew forth from the bottom of her top bureau drawer the sheet of pink writing-paper and the envelope that she had been saving for this day. She sat down at the table by the window and dipped the pen into the bottle of green ink that her sister

Rose was such a pig about. She wrote, with beautiful arabesques, "Dear Mr. Morgenstau," and held her head back to admire this effort of the best pupil in penmanship class.

"Here are my stamps for a bundle, $10.75. I started last Christmas when I got $3.00. Not counting 50 cents, I have earned all the rest, working one or more days a week at a local grocery store, and I'm quite proud to say I worked hard to get it."

Janey stared out of the window at Peterson's house and beyond at the big yard where the kids were playing football. She held her pen elegantly in air.

"Sitting here looking out the window, I see a peaceful little town, and I wonder how the world can be in such a turmoil and the people of this world can have such hate for their fellow men. So I'm proud to send these stamps because I know I'm helping to make the whole world peaceful again like our little town."

She signed her name with an important flourish, not forgetting a conspicuous "Miss" in front of the "Janey." After she had sealed the letter she went on staring out of the window. It really was awfully peaceful. Overhead she heard a plane go humming by through the sunny afternoon air. Then the voice of her best friend, Betty, called from outside—"Janey!" In an instant Janey was on her feet and tearing downstairs and out. She was not Hedy LaMarr nor a deep philosopher any more, but exactly twelve years old.

Grown-ups and children alike should all help the "breadwinner" of the family to budget for War Bonds. Let's all join a payroll savings plan and "top that 10% by New Year's."

Letters of Miss Ruth Cowles Will Be Published

The following article is the first of several which are extracts of letters written to her mother by Miss Ruth Cowles, a daughter of Mrs. Amy Cowles, a former missionary teacher in Africa, now living in Claremont, California.

The Cowles family made their home in Campbell for a few years and made many friends here. However, the glimpses of life as depicted by Miss Cowles in faraway Union of South Africa from last Christmas time through months of the war year of 1942 make interesting reading for everyone.

Dear Friends:

Once again Ruth and I are sending our united greetings to you for Christmas and the New Year. Since Ruth's last year's letter had to be sent off of necessity before Christmas had taken place, I am beginning this year's compilation of extracts from such letters as have come through with Ruth's story of how she celebrated her own personal Christmas in 1941.

Dearest Mother:

Christmas day this year I was on duty, but it is the quietest Christmas day I have ever spent here. Not a single broken head did I patch up! I had a really lazy day in comparison to the usual, doing only those things that were actually necessary. The day before Christmas Mrs. Schreiner (wife of Chief Justice Schreiner) appeared on the scene with a hamper of Christmas dinner, a tender roast chicken all cooked, several little mince tarts, delicious new potatoes and crook-necked squash from her own garden, nuts, raisins, litchi nuts and peaches. Wasn't it just too dear of her! She said she was afraid I had not had time to plan anything for a Christmas celebration. So I asked to dinner the medical student who had offered to help on that day, Bless his heart!, and a Greek nurse who is a refugee and having a very lonely and difficult time here. We had our dinner in the evening and it was quite a festive occasion, and an interesting one with Mrs. Mavridou to tell us some of her experiences.

Just two days before Christmas came a quantity of letters from friends overseas, simply too lovely for words, in this war time to hear from so many just then . . . and there were packages galore from overseas and local friends. Your Christmas . . .

It was all much too much. How I do thank you all!

It is time to go on duty so I shall finish later, but I'm going to send this scrap as it is just to let you know I did have a lovely Christmas and received all your gifts. The flour sack towels came safely too, a perfect treasure house! . . . Thank you, too, Mother for The Upper Room. The first reading begins, "And now abideth hope . . ." a glorious note for the beginning of 1942 when the material world seems so very hopeless. I have kept thinking of it and getting joy from it.

Again, so much love to each one. Now that the U. S. A. has joined forces actually with the other democracies, it makes you seem further away, but there abideth hope. May the New Year see many hopes individually and for the world realized.

Retired machinist back in harness puts 20% in War Bonds

Oscar used to be a first-class machinist. Five years ago he retired to live out the rest of his life on a pension.

The other morning he showed up again at his old plant, which now makes war equipment, and asked for his old job back. When payday came, he signed up with the Payroll Savings Plan to put 20% of his pay in War Bonds.

Seems Oscar's boy was on Bataan.

The light that shall never fail!

There will be a Christmas wherever our boys are. The lighted tree will be there, too—real or envisioned.

Somewhat this tree symbolizes the ideal for which they are fighting—democracy's determination—that the light of Faith and Freedom shall not perish from this Earth.

You can count on it, our boys will observe their Christmas as good Americans. Boys, now turned men, who not many years back thrilled to the big package under the lighted tree at home. Or whooped in delight at a football suit or a surprise bicycle suddenly appearing from secret hiding.

Like their fathers of another war, they will make sure that there is no dim-out of the brightness of Christmas for them. They will share Christmas in new-made comradeship. They will share Christmas as big brothers from America to put sparkle back into the eyes of war-sadened children in foreign lands.

Light your tree at home in dedication. Share your Christmas with a boy in service. Buy War Bonds in remembrance. Keep buying War Bonds that the light of Faith shall never fail. Buy War Bonds that no hand will be empty when a fervent voice says—"Praise the Lord and pass the ammunition."
